

The Wall: Over the Wall

I'll tell you why I'm trying
I'll tell you why you won't stop me from flying
I've learned to jump, I've learned how to climb
I'm solving my problems, one step at a time

Something I know and believe
As I struggle each day to achieve
Within my grasp, a goal I can reach
Even when I may stumble and fall
I can see over the wall...

In spite of life's constant motion
I've got a plan that deserves my devotion
I'm looking up, I'm reaching in
I'm going further than I've ever been

Somewhere within me I feel
The desire, the effort and will
No hurdle no flood and no label can stop me
Even if I stumble and fall
I can see over the wall...

There is such power in trial
If you keep pushing forward, don't stop in denial
Quitters don't win, winners won't quit
With opportunity waiting, you cannot afford to sit

Somehow I know I can be
In control of the forces in me
With freedom of choice and the strength to succeed
Even if I stumble and fall
I can see over the wall

Take control of your own circumstance
Choose ways that give you a good fighting chance
Hope is much stronger than all of the bricks in your way
Spend your time on things that will last
Prepare for the future and learn from the past
If you're wondering when to start trying, today is the day

Somewhere within me I feel
The desire, the effort and will
No hurdle, no flood and no label can stop me
Even if I stumble and fall, I can see over the wall
Over the wall.
