

Street Resilience #7

Have you ever been told that you're not good enough, smart enough or that you will never be able to do something? How did that make you feel?

Write about what you could do the next time that happens to use your emotions as fuel to create a productive outcome.

